Consider Resource Adequacy Matters.

NOTICE RESCHEDULING TECHNICAL CONFERENCE

(Issued May 27, 2020)

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Technical Conference scheduled for May 29, 2019, is being rescheduled for June 19, 2020, commencing at 10:00 A.M. and ending by 12:30 P.M. The Technical Conference will be held as a web videoconference and will include a presentation by The Brattle Group. A supplemental notice will be issued with instructions for those wishing to participate in the videoconference.

Materials related to the Technical Conference were filed by DPS Staff and posted in this proceeding on May 19, 2020. These materials include the results of analyses prepared by The Brattle Group to evaluate, from an economic and policy perspective, the merits of existing and potential resource adequacy structures. The rescheduled date for the videoconference is to provide additional time for interested stakeholders to submit questions on these materials in advance of the Technical Conference and to better understand the quantitative and qualitative analyses used to compare varying structures.

Interested stakeholders are requested to submit any questions on the related materials filed by DPS Staff in advance of the Technical Conference. Any such questions should be submitted by June 10, 2020, by emailing them to Adam Evans at
